Michael F. Wilcox, CFA, is currently the CEO of Alford Associates, a research and consultancy firm specializing in foreign exchange analysis. Mr. Wilcox has been in the investment business for more than 25 years.

Immediately prior to founding Alford Associates in 1992, Wilcox was an international equity portfolio manager and the head of Global Asset Allocation at State Street Global Advisers in Boston. Before that, he spent 10 years on Wall Street, 5 years of that as head of Quantitative Research in the Equity Research Department at Morgan Stanley. Wilcox holds a Master's degree in Economics from Trinity College in Hartford, and received his CFA designation in 1981.

Although Mr. Wilcox is a specialist in the area of currency management, he has broad experience in the valuation and trading of all types of securities and derivatives. He is an active member of several professional groups, including the Boston and New York QWAFAFEW chapters, which he helped organize. He has served as an adviser to the Board of Directors of INQUIRE Europe and as a member of its program committee. He is an internationally recognized authority on quantitative investment methods and speaks frequently at international investment conferences.

Wilcox has made many presentations to both the Boston Security Analysts Society (BSAS) and the New York Society of Security Analysts, and has taught for several years in the BSAS CFA program.
